Informal Conferences Take Time.

The Day Ends with a Smile.

We were a group with diverse interest when first we met at McKinley in the fall of 1964, but we were all basically aware of the responsibilities of being a class.

Parties, Prom, fund raising campaigns, and service to the school and community projects loomed in our future. But without leadership how could we reach these goals? We solved this enigma when we selected Mrs. Diana Maselli as our class advisor. With Mrs. Maselli's able guidance and perseverance to temper our pursuits, we maintained the tradition of McKinley classes.

Consequently, it is with a deep feeling of gratitude for the assistance she gave us, that we, the Class of 1967, dedicate this book to Mrs. Maselli, senior class advisor.

Teaching Requires Patience.

Foreword

This final year at McKinley has been a rewarding but all too short experience. Yes, the memories of it are still crisp in our minds. But these recollections, in a few short years, shall lose their sharpness before we are aware. Then, no more shall encounters with old school friends possess that same glowing warmth of comradeship as they did at McKinley. What then? It is the fond desire of the Dragon staff that this book will serve as a lasting record of the concluding year at McKinley for the Class of 1967. And so with a sense of humble pride we provide you with "A Look at the Past, A Glimpse of the Future."

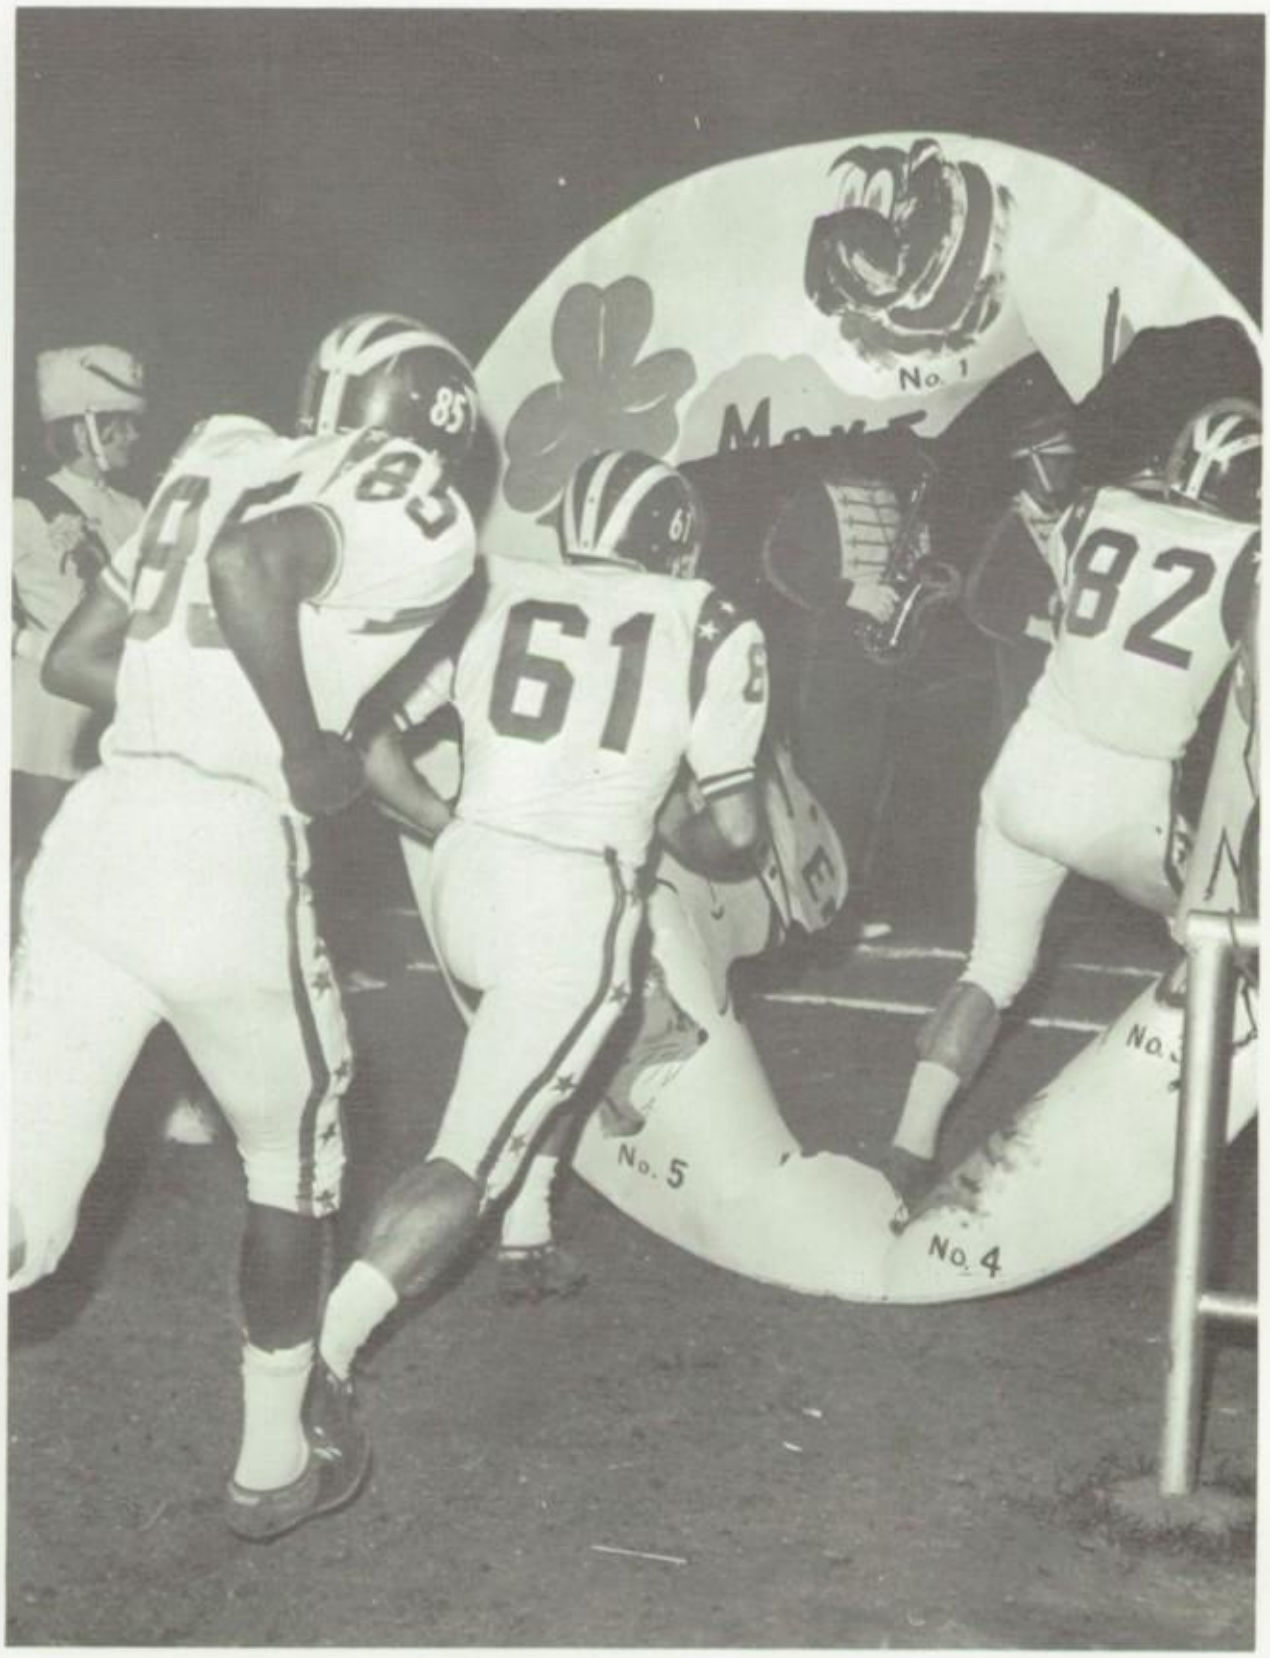
Participation in School Life Teaches

A Look at the Past . . .

As we look at our years at NHS in retrospect we cannot avoid being aware that we were given ample opportunity through academic, social, and athletic activity to practice the tenants of leadership. The lessons we were taught from this learning experience will be of unfathomed value throughout the remainder of our lives.

Students Leadership

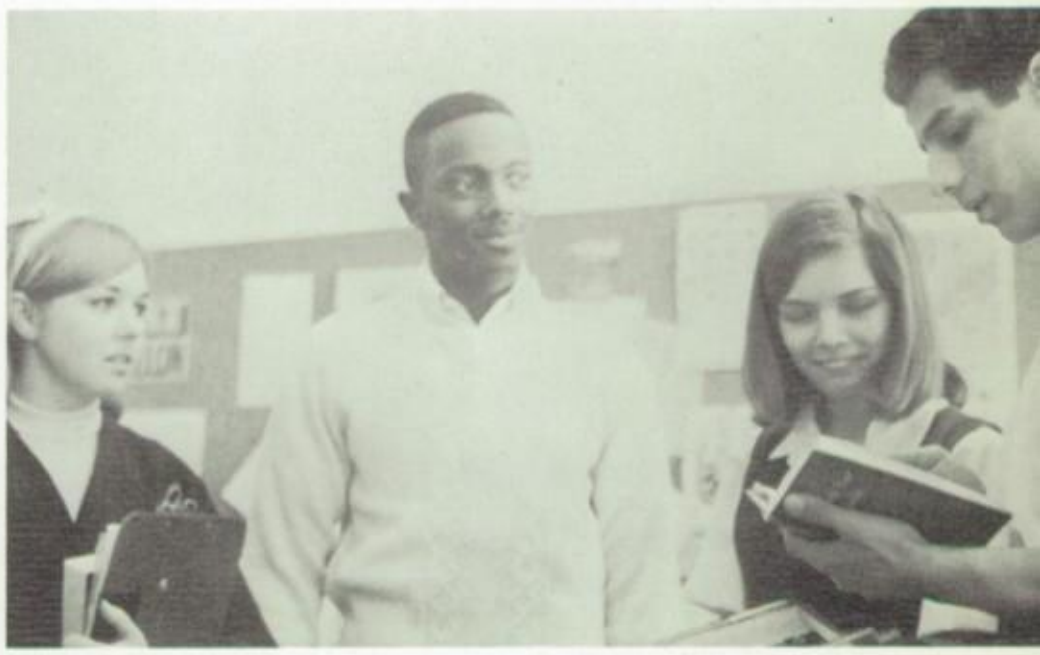


Individual, Group Affili

A Look at the Past . . .

Individual investigations, group discussions, religious affiliations, polite manners, and work with school and community leaders enabled us to form sound character habits during our tenure as students at McKinley High.

tions Aid Pupils to Develop Character



A Look at the Past . . .

Scholarship was always foremost in our minds while we matriculated to McKinley High. An art project, a class lecture, a cross question in debate, or a teacher demonstration were but a few among the multitude of learning activities through which we reached our academic goals.

McKinleyites Gain Knowledge by Scholarship

Nilesites Help Others through Service

A Look at the Past . . .

Although we were often served by others while students at NHS, we learned through example and by our own efforts that service to others is a prime requisite to satisfaction in life. Providing flags for each homeroom, working with the Scouts, meeting at the stadium for an ALSAC fund drive, and loading syringes for a mass innoculation made us happy and useful people.

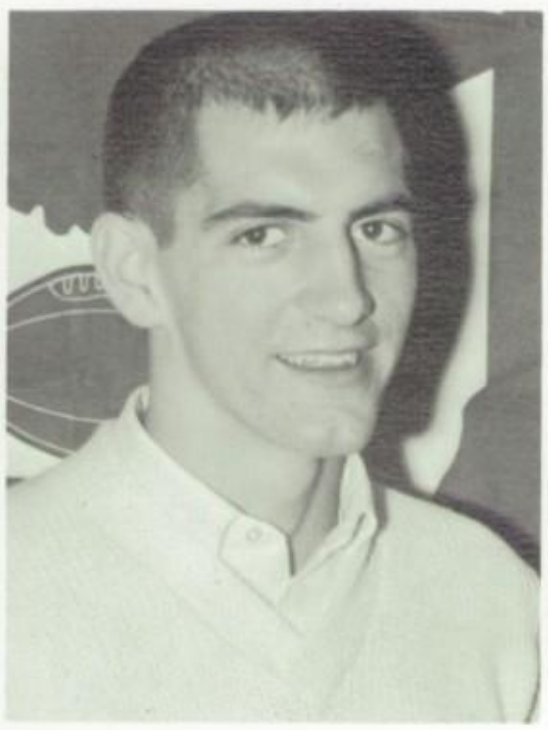
Graduates in Future



A Glimpse of the Future . . .

We know not what lies ahead of us. But of one bright prospect we are certain whether butcher, baker, businessman, nurse, doctor, pharmacist, builder, or member of the Armed Forces the lessons we learned at McKinley High will provide us with firm ground upon which to grapple the future.

FACULTY

Something there is about a teacher that demands him to be unusual in his professional endeavors. He must be willing to give his time, his knowledge, and at times his physical being to the eager and the not so eager student alike. Added to this the teacher must have a desire to serve his fellow beings for more than remunerative gain.

The faculty at NHS aptly meets the tenants outlined in this text and it is with sincere appreciation for what the McKinley faculty has done for us that we of the Class of 1967 in our look at the past pay special tribute to the faculty for the special skills and knowledge with which it has provided us.

Superintendent, School Board Provide Educational Leadership

Conducting the financial and educational complexities of a modern-day American school system is an exacting enterprise. The public schools is one of the largest, if not the largest, business in any city or town. The executive competence of its leadership must, consequently, by the basic nature of immediate and long range demands of the undertaking, be equal to that of the best corporate or civil functionary in the nation.

Dr. Donald Renwand, his administrative assistants, and the local Board of Education combine their talented efforts to meet, with proven skill, the rigors of their responsibility.

Principal, Assistants Head McKinley High

Principal
Robert H. Sharp

For a quarter of a century Principal Robert H. Sharp has directed the educational effectiveness of McKinley High. During this two and a half decades he has always maintained an open door policy for both students and faculty. It is through this bilateral approach to the solution of human problems that he has become recognized as someone beyond just the head of the school. For he is indeed worthy of the distinction he has earned among the tens of thousands of students he has assisted as a capable adminstrator, an honest counselor, and a true friend.

So, for you Mr. Sharp, let these few words, which shall exist as long as eyes can see and man can read, express the unanimous appreciation that we, the Class of 1967, have for what you have done for us and our beloved McKinley High.

Class Salutes Teachers

Please pardon the play on words, but it takes a lot of teaching to make McKinley High a school. And there can be no doubt that Niles High has always been one of the state's best learning institutions.

The fact that NHS is rated as a "First Class High School" by the Northcentral Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools is attributable in a majority sense to the instructional staff's professional dedication. Each of these highly trained and skilled individuals has a vital role to perform in the overall training of the McKinley student body, and he does it. No one teacher can be cited for greater teaching effectiveness than any other, for the total learning of the pupil is a composite of team work.

The Class of 1967 salutes you, the teachers of McKinley High, and closes its day to day association with you with the sincere hope that your futures will be as rewarding as has your pasts.

Faculty Members Advise Co-Curricular Activities

Participation as advisors for co-curricular activities at McKinley High takes much of the spare moments of a teacher, throughout the school term. Directing a play, coaching a sport, guiding the talents of student speakers and writers, and all similar responsibilities are demanding of the teacher's time, talent, and physical stamina.

The activity program of the school, however, is vital to the complete development of the McKinley student body, and deserves its place in the total school organization. Advisors of activities are to be commended for their contribution to still another phase of education at NHS.

Staff Members Devote Time for Service

Now Who Else Has A Big Question!

Leisure time activities for teachers are as varied as they are for any other professional group. On the McKinley instructional staff there are golfers, bowlers, pilots, boaters, campers, world travelers, and an untabulated host of other spare time hobbiests.

However, even more significant among the spare time interests of teachers is their contribution of service to the community, state, and nation. McKinley's faculty has distinguished itself in the area of service and many of its members are top leaders in politics, in military organizations, and fraternal and social organizations.

Educators Double As Counselors

Endless sets of papers to grade, daily lesson plans to prepare, and a near millenium of perfunctory tasks to perform, these are the professional demands of a teacher. Beyond his classroom responsibilities the instructor often, by circumstances peculiar to the personal contact factor common to teaching, must be the confidant and counselor for his pupils. It is a compliment to McKinley High that its teaching force has and will continue to serve the student body in the aforementioned manner.

Miss Josephine Kronfeldt

McKinley's guidance staff, consisting of Miss Dorothy Dew, girls' counselor and Joseph Basset, boys' counselor, were always available to unselfishly provide their talents and skills to the NHS student body.

Throughout the 1966-67 school year, these educational specialists provided the necessary professional motivation to enable many pupils to see vividly, goals for the future that they may not have resolved through any other source.

Special Services Add To School Effectiveness

Without the services of a well trained nurse, cooks, and highly trained custodians, the educational accomplishments at McKinley High could not have progressed as smoothly and effectively as it did during the past school term.

Although their work was often unheralded, these dedicated people, who comprise the NHS Special Service Staff, certainly are to be commended for their dedication to duty.

ACTIVITIES

Looking in retrospect the three years that the Class of 1967 has been assembled at McKinley have been arduous and productive. Mastery of the content material included in the curriculum has always been foremost with us. But then, school life goes beyond the proverbial 3 R's and so do the sources of learning exceed the formal classroom. It is by way of participation in so termed co-curricular activities that some of the most vital knowledge of living democratically were gained.

Upholding the reputation of the National Honor Society as leaders in character, scholarship, leadership, and service was the task of the small fraction of outstanding McKinley students chosen for membership in the club.

With the goal of acquiring a scholarship fund, the 1966-67 members sold candy during the lunch periods.

Student Council Adopts Vietnamese Child

One of the most energetic and productive Student Council's ever to be formed at McKinley, the 1966-1967 representative assembly completed service projects of significance to the student body, the community, and the nation.

As its first service project the local solons purchased and installed two refrigerated water coolers in the school. Council also adopted a seven year old Vietnamese girl under the Foster Parents Plan in what is of national and international importance. Other projects of far reaching value were under study by council as the book was being published and so no mention could be made of them. However, as the Hi-Crier noted so aptly in one of its editorials this year, the 1966-1967 Student Council certainly deserved praise as a group unceasingly devoted to service for others.

Included among the outstanding speakers were the Debate team and Individual Events entrants.

Clubs Enrich Curricular Offerings at McKinley

Projection Crew

Academic achievement at McKinley is greatly enhanced through the efforts of a very unselfish and energetic group, the Projection Crew. The members of this club give up time during study halls to operate motion picture, film strip, and tape and record equipment for NHS classes. It is by way of their contribution of time and work that many instructional periods are vastly enriched.

Paperback Book Club

Another dedicated group of McKinleyites which contributes service so that the learning processes at NHS are increased in scope is the Paperback Book Club. Assisting the librarian in ordering, handling, displaying, and selling the paperback books that are of so much value to the reading populace of the school are among the chief duties of these club members.

Electronics Enthusiasts Join NHS Radio Club

McKinleyites with an enthusiasm for electronics form the nucleus of the Radio Club.

A complete slate of club activity ranging from service to social is included among the club's activities each year. Throughout the year members of the Radio Club operate the public address systems at Riverside Stadium, the auditorium, and gymnasium. This same membership also provides record player service for school sock hops, parties, and dances.

Socially, the club stages several parties and dances for its members during the school term.

Lettermen Win Coveted 'N' Monograms

Time out will now be called for the recognition of the men who form the nuclei of McKinley High athletic teams, the lettermen. It was they, who with their invaluable talent, leadership and experience, were the mainstays of their respective sports.

For their contributions to Niles' athletic endeavors, members of McKinley sport squads are annually awarded the letter "N". Though small in its physical aspect, this coveted award attained by these well-deserving sportsmen represents the true mark of distinctive achievement of its owner.

Drivers, Monitors Attract Student Members

Behind the Wheel Club

One of the largest co-curricular groups assembled at McKinley this year, the Behind the Wheel Club, consisting of NHS teenage drivers, existed to emphasize the need for safe driving habits among all automobile operators. Members of the club attended teenage traffic courts and held discussions regarding highway safety.

Newspaper Staff Produces 'Hi-Crier'

Editor Shirley Bryant

Through the active efforts and interest of a small but active staff, the Hi-Crier has successfully completed the 1966-67 school year with a very high rating from the National Scholastic Press Association for its accomplishments in news-writing.

The journal under the leadership of Editor-in-Chief Shirley Bryant has become the voice of the NHS student body as it relates the events of each day. It is evident that the Hi-Crier will continue to give its readers a wider coverage of school happenings as it has done in the past.

By way of photo coverage, the production staff, under the guidance of Co-Editors Daiva Crummel and Pamela Pattison, produced a lasting momento of our school year. The financial staff provided the necessary funds to make this dream come true.

Together these staffs, though separate and distinct, combined their efforts to prepare the final product, the 1967 Dragon.

NHS Instrumentalists

Director Charles M. Rayburn

Whether performing an intricate drill in the crowded football stadium or playing a selection of great tunes, the NHS band excelled in whatever it attempted.

Some activities of the band included marching at every football game, taking part in school and community programs, presenting its annual midwinter concert, participating at District Solo and Ensemble Contest, and helping stage the school production of the "Music Man" during the spring.

Majorettes, Ensembles Vital to McKinley Band

No marching or concert band would be complete without the Majorettes and the Ensembles, who add the finishing touches to an exciting performance.

The Majorettes, led by Head Majorette Sandy Sisko, performed snappy strutting, fancy twirling, and flashy dancing for the football fans in the fall. Where the Marching Band left off at the end of the football season, the Concert Band and the Ensembles began during basketball season. Chorus Provides Vocal Entertainment

Director Fred Fusco

Providing musical entertainment for many activities throughout the year is the duty of the NHS vocal department, comprised of the Mixed Chorus, the Senoritas, the Swinging Belles, the Beaux, the Sophtones, and the Girls Chorus. Included among their many performances were the annual Christmas Concert, the Lenten Cantata, the spring production of the "Music Man," Baccalaureate and Commencement Programs. In addition to these shows, the vocalists also sang for many community and club groups.

ATHLETICS

Now, as in the past, athletics at Niles McKinley have played an outstanding role in the development of character and integrity in the students of McKinley High

The anxious onlookers as well as the participating individuals have profited greatly by the hard work and constant dedication, untiringly displayed by the athletes of NHS.

The playing fields and courts at McKinley have always abounded with competitive spirit, skill and desire to excel. What McKinley's young men and women learned through athletic participation will surely be of value in future life.

Dragons Complete Undefeated Season

"King Football" once again reigned as a top attraction for McKinley High sports enthusiasts, as the grid squad under the brilliant direction of Bob Shaw, completed an unbeaten, untied gridiron season posting a 10-0 slate.

One of the top powerhouses in the Buckeye State, the Red Dragons roared through their ten scheduled duels, racking up an All American Conference championship, a second place rating in the State of Ohio in both the UPI and AP Polls, and a State Championship in the National Sports News Service's rating.

Each player on this dedicated team, more often than not smaller than his opponent, had a tenacious desire to excell and worked hard to make the name of Niles McKinley stay high atop the grid poll standings. Heralded as one of the greatest squads in McKinley High football history, this team was never outmatched when it came to displaying courage and the burning ambition to win.

Dragons Post 5-13 Skein In Regular Season Play

With the drive, desire and the determination to better themselves on the courts, the 1966-67 edition of the Niles McKinley hardwood five under the guidance of new head mentor Bob Doll, proved to be rugged foes for all those who opposed them. That "never say die" attitude which prevailed throughout the entire season provided the NHS five a competitive spirit although at times the odds were stacked against them due to inexperience and a rebuilding program. The Red and Blue wound up 5-13 in regular season play.

New Coach Heads Dragons

When the local cagers hit the hardwoods December 2, at Warren John F. Kennedy fieldhouse, for the consecutive year a new man was at the helm of the Dragons.

Robert Doll took over the reins as head basketball mentor, prior to the resumption of school, following the resignation of Richard Bullock, April 25.

Junior Varsity Does Well

Junior Varsity Coach
William Leonard

Under the close guidance of Junior Varsity coach Bill Leonard, the Dragon underclassmen fared well in competition compiling a 6-12 record for the 1966-67 campaign .

The youthful NHS five gained the valuable experience that they will need in their varsity debut. They learned that hard work and dedication pays off if one is willing to sacrifice to better himself, and the others associated with him. The Red and Blue J.V. squad through the use of consistent team work, proved once again that success requires the will to win.

Netmen Prep for Season

Participating again in the Mahoning Valley High School circuit, the Niles McKinley tennis squad under the guidance of Coach Don Pallante, should prove to be one of the best in the area. Bolstered by the return of six monogram winners from last season and with only one of the returning lettermen in the underclassmen ranks, experience should be the key note to this year's success on the courts.

Baseball

Experienced Players Form Diamondmen Nucleus

With eight returning starters forming the nucleus for a solid ball club, Coach Paul "Pepper" DeMont's diamondmen can look forward to a highly successful season in the 1967 campaign.

Competing against some of the top nines in the area, the Red and Blue have continually been in contention for State honors.

Cindermen to Compete for Track, Field Honors

McKinley athletes with a yen for individual competition are promised ample opportunity to vent their enthusiasm as members of the NHS Track and Cross-Country teams. Coached by Head Mentor Walter Duricy, the McKinley thinclads and harriers complete a grueling season each year against some of the area's top running squads.

Golf Coach
Joseph Bassett

With six experienced players returning to the greens this year, including four lettermen, the NHS golf squad again figures to be among the top teams in the area. The local linksmen are coached by veteran Mentor Joseph Bassett and have a long record as being a tartar in the Trumbull County Double A Golf League. All Niles home matches are played at Avalon Golf Course.

Boys' Condition Bodies in Gym

Strong bodies to match strong minds is the philosophy that abounds in NHS physical education classes as a rigorous calisthentics and gym program is taught to all Sophomore and Junior boys, who assemble twice a week under the guidance of Louis Toth.

Many pupils grunt, groan, and complain, but the McKinley physical education classes have their positive effects on all male McKinleyites.

GAA Sponsors Sports for McKinley Girls

Throughout the entire school year, female members of the McKinley High School student body are given an opportunity to participate in competitive sports sponsored through the Girls' Athletic Association. Encouraging girls to take part in both individual and team activities, the group sponsors events such as tumbling, volleyball, basketball, track, and bowling leagues.

CLASSES

What the future holds we know not and all we have to face it with is our past. As we the Class of 1967 leave McKinley there is no void caused by our departure. For the Class of 1968 has already assumed our recently vacated role as Seniors. And the Class of 1969 anxiously awaits its turn of senior status and the cycle continues. Although each class likes to pride itself as being unique, we all have or will experience common events and activities as a McKinley class. And so, as each class takes its place among the alumni of NHS, and its members assume adult responsibilities, they can feel confident that this glimpse of their future will be tempered by a confidence that they can master whatever lies ahead.

Sophomores Plan for Future

Upon entering McKinley this fall, as the Class of 1969, we enthusiastically anticipated the adventures which lay ahead of us.

Our first accomplishments as sophomores included electing officers and choosing the class colors, flower and advisor. Sponsoring sock hops after basketball games and selling candy was our major fund raising projects. Another activity was the annual class party held at the end of the school year.

In the future we plan to raise enough money to have the biggest prom ever.

Juniors Achieve Goals

Advisor
Ronald Randall

During the past two years at NHS, we, the members of the Junior Class, have set and achieved many goals.

Our greatest accomplishment was the Junior-Senior Prom for which we raised funds by sponsoring sock hops. Class dues also added to our treasury.

As this year draws to a close, our thoughts turn to our last year at McKinley and we hope that it is as rewarding as our past association with NHS.

Class of 1967 Takes First Step into Future

Advisor: Mrs. Diana Maselli

As the 1967 school term came to a close, we, the members of the Senior Class, bid adieu to our high school days and stepped into the world of competition as young adults.

Although we may lose contact with many of our friends and teachers, we will not lose the memories of our NHS experiences. Chief among our recollections of this final year at McKinley are certainly to be the Senior Banquet, the Junior-Senior Party, and of course Prom.

Motto: "The world is a beautiful book; but of little use to him who cannot read."

CONCLUSION

Now that you have so graciously yielded your time to take this sojourn with us into "A Look at the Past, A Glimpse of the Future" may we, the Annual Staff, thank you for your kind indulgence. Also may we hope that this publication will bring you even more pleasant recollections of your experiences at NHS in years to come when the book will be of greater value than it has been today. Finally, in closing may we too give special thanks to the following who assisted us so tremendously in making the "1967 Dragon" a reality.

Maggie
I'm the odd girl with the odd man. You're since of taste somewhat old. But it's what makes you happy. It's great a great personality that will take you a long way in life
I do wish you and the odd-man the best of luck in the years to come. I hope that your plans will come true.

Marty
